Introduction

Introduction and Background
This year, 2018, sees the 20th anniversary of the Belfast/Good Friday Agreement and, at the time of writing, sees a year since we had a functioning Executive at Stormont. The current political crisis, coupled with the financial crisis facing schools, means this anniversary comes at a particularly challenging time. It is therefore relevant and appropriate to seek the public’s views on the education we offer our young people and on the opportunities for reform of the system.

The Integrated Education Fund sought evidence of public opinion in order to inform our continuing campaign to make sure communities are engaged in the development of education in Northern Ireland. The Fund commissioned LucidTalk, an independent polling and market research agency, to research views on the current education system and possible ways forward.

Methodology

Polling was carried out by Belfast based polling and market research company LucidTalk. The project was carried out online and by telephone for a period of 8 days from 15th to 23rd February 2018. The project targeted the established Northern Ireland (NI) LucidTalk online Opinion Panel (10,482 members) which is balanced by gender, age-group, area of residence, and community background, in order to be demographically representative of Northern Ireland. 1,832 full responses were collated, and a data auditing process was carried out to ensure all completed poll-surveys were genuine 'one-person, one-vote' responses, and also to collate a robust and accurate balanced NI representative sample. This resulted in 1,520 responses being considered in terms of the final results - the results presented in this report.

All data results have been weighted by gender and community background to reflect the demographic composition of Northern Ireland resulting in 1,520 responses being considered in terms of the final results. All data results produced are accurate to a margin of error of +/-3.0%, at 95% confidence.

All reported margins of sampling error include the computed design effects for weighting.
